

Cease Fire Still Questionable

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Algeria Saturday announced the official start of a cease-fire in its undeclared frontier war with Morocco. The announcement came shortly after the two nations traded charges of aggression.

The Algerian announcement came from the government-controlled radio. The cease-fire deadline was set for midnight Friday under the terms of the Bamako accord, but there was no immediate way of knowing if the fighting had actually stopped.

Red Chinese Down U2 Plane

TOKYO (AP)—Peking radio claimed a Red Chinese air force unit shot down a Nationalist Chinese U2 plane over Hua Tung, near Shanghai, on Friday.

Nationalist Chinese air force headquarters at Taipei reported one of its planes failed to return from a reconnaissance mission over the Chinese mainland but declined to say whether the missing plane was an American-made U2.

A Red Chinese radio broadcast said the high-altitude craft was on a "harassing mission."

Soviets Launch New Space Shot

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched an unmanned space vehicle Friday which it said was capable of performing complicated maneuvers on command from the earth.

A few hours later Premier Khrushchev commented that he would look with more warmth on the idea of U.S.-Soviet space cooperation if international tensions eased.

Action Slowed On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, dipping a toe into the sea or proposals aimed at trimming U.S. foreign aid sharply, drowned Sen. Wayne Morse's move Friday to send the legislation back to the Foreign Relations Committee for shrinkage.

Immediately after the Oregon Democrat's motion was defeated 46-29, majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., urged the senators to be on hand in full force for more voting Monday and every day next week.

"We seem to be in for a long siege," Mansfield declared.

Elsa Maxwell Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Elsa Maxwell, 80, internationally known hostess to society, died Friday in New York Hospital.

The cause of death was not immediately known. Miss Maxwell entered the hospital Thursday.

Her last public appearance was in a wheelchair at the annual April in Paris ball a week ago at the Americana Hotel.

Coalman Heads State Bureau

HARRISBURG (AP) — A coal company official was appointed by the State Mines Department Friday to head the Bureau of Anthracite Conservation and Reclamation.

The bureau, created by the 1963 Legislature, will administer the anthracite strip mining laws.

Mines Secretary H. N. Charnbury said he has named Wesley I. Stonebraker, Blackely, as director at an annual salary of $9,454.

No New Fires Reported

STROUDSBURG — Gerald Robinson, district forester, reported last night that there were no new fires in the area yesterday.

Robinson said that the rainfall yesterday was not enough to be of any value as far as lowering the fire danger in the area.

The rainfall yesterday was less than .01 inch and is recorded as a trace.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Backing away from an irregular early rise, the stock market Friday ended with a thoroughly scrambled pattern. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials took a loss of 1.50 at 753.73.

Volume was 522-million shares compared with 5.05 million Thursday.

Small Game Season Off Indefinitely

HARRISBURG (AP) — Saturday's scheduled opening of the popular small game hunting season has been postponed by state officials concerned over the continuing threat of forest fires despite recent showers.

State game commission headquarters was swamped with telephone calls from people eager to know whether there would be a statewide ban against hunting, fishing, smoking and campfires in or near wooded areas.

But after a telephone consultation Friday between Gov. Scranton and Maurice K. Goddard, forests and waters secretary, it was decided to continue the ban indefinitely.

Goddard said the rain in the last 24 hours was a welcome relief to fire fighters, but he added:

Danger Of Fire

"It has so far been insufficient in quantity to alleviate the basic problem with regard to forest fire danger.

"To withdraw the bans on smoking, outdoor fires, hunting and fishing, until greater amounts of precipitation fall, would be to risk the loss of all that has been gained through the governor's proclamation."

New fires dropped off sharply early this week after earlier rains, but increased again Wednesday and Thursday as high winds dried out the forests.

"There has been little significant penetration into the bone dry sub-surface areas," Goddard said.

Closed In 1952

It was the first time since 1952 that the small game season opener, which annually attracts thousands of hunters, has been postponed.

M. J. Golden, executive director of the game commission, said the commission is considering extending the regularly scheduled seasons to make up for lost time.

Golden said he had been urged to recommend opening the season in areas which had heavier rainfalls.

"But we don't want to open any part separately," he continued. "It must be done in entirety to avoid the problem faced in 1952 when the ban was lifted after a week in the counties, which then were deluged by an influx of hunters."

Farmer Loans Extended

In another drought development the agriculture department designated farmers in six more Pennsylvania counties eligible for emergency loans.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., was advised that the farmers home administration will lend money at three per cent interest for farm operations in Adams, Dauphin, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry and York counties.

The department earlier declared farmers in 42 Pennsylvania counties eligible for such aid.

Clark also announced these federal loans and grants: Saxton—a $220,000 accelerated public works grant from the Community Facilities Administration for a reservoir to cost $464,000.

Norristown—a $20,020 urban renewal administration grant for comprehensive planning to cost $30,030.

Tarentum—a $168,383 urban renewal administration grant to clear a five-acre urban renewal project area.

Olyphant—a $51,700 loan and a $428,305 grant by urban renewal administration for a five-acre urban renewal project. The area will be redeveloped for residential use including public housing for the elderly.

Commissioners Didn't Drop Any Property Off Tax Rolls

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County commissioners say that they have not taken any property of Sophie E. Achtermann of Stroudsburg off the county tax rolls for 1963 or 1964.

The Daily Record reported Oct. 8 after her tax appeal hearing that the commissioners directed "that she be exonerated from her 1963 taxes and that in 1964 her trailer not be taxed and the land alone made taxable."

The official exoneration was received Thursday afternoon in the commissioners' office by H. Ray Saunders, chief clerk of Monroe County Commissioners.

A carbon copy of the exoneration was also mailed that day to Jack Kitchen, tax collector in the Borough of Stroudsburg, and Dr. John Lim, secretary of Stroud Union School Board.

In correcting the action of the commissioners, Leo Achtermann, county solicitor, said it is impossible to take property completely off the tax rolls.

There had been reports of a possible taxpayers suit against the commissioners for illegally removing property from the tax rolls.

Action Explained

John R. Lesoine, chairman of the board of commissioners, explained the action of the board after hearing Miss Achtermann's appeal.

He said the board first ordered an exoneration of $250 for the 1963 tax year. Miss Achtermann had produced a 1962 tax notice which stated that her assessment would be $1,100 for a small plot of land and a trailer on N. Second St., Stroudsburg.

But her 1962 tax bill was based on an assessment of $1,350 and that assessment was entered in the assessment book at the county tax assessor's office. The commissioners gave her credit for the difference.

Then the board voted, after an independent real estate appraisal report that the trailer was "falling apart," to reduce the property assessment from $1,350 in 1963 to $500 for the 1963 tax year.

It reduced the land assessment from $100 to $50 and the trailer assessment from $1,250 to $450 for a total reduction of $850.

Lesoine said the board did not decide not to tax her trailer in 1964. And Mrs. Lulu Lanterman, acting chief tax assessor, said she had not received such an order from the commissioners.

Minutes Not Typed Up

The minutes of the Oct. 7 tax appeal hearing, which had not been typed up yet Thursday, do not state clearly what action the commissioners took on the appeal.

Lesoine said the poor condition of the trailer was reported by two real estate appraisers, not by George K. Brands Sr., chief tax assessor who was fired June 6 by the commissioners.

At the Oct. 7 tax appeal hearing for Miss Achtermann, she accused Brands of increasing her tax assessments after she refused an alleged invitation to go fishing with him in Canada.

Brands called her accusation "a barefaced lie."

Integration Leaders Freed On Bond In Georgia Case

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP)—Five integration leaders were released from jail on bond Friday following a decision striking down a 19th century Georgia insurance law and an unlawful assembly statute.

The five, three white men and two Negroes, along with a 14-year-old Negro girl were freed on bail. They had been held nearly three months. Bond had been denied the girl, and four of the men who were charged with trying to incite insurrection.

Two other Negro prisoners, Artis and Marvin Brown, were released under bond of $500 each as a result of the order. They had been in jail since August, charged with resisting arrest.

rest, disorderly conduct and failing to obey officers.

In a 2-1 decision, a three-judge court issued an injunction barring prosecution of charges under the two statutes. The order itself went further and set a deadline of 6 p.m. Friday for release of all six prisoners under bond on other charges, including rioting, aiding escape, resisting arrest and assault.

Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of Atlanta, chief judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, and U.S. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan of La Grange, Ga., concurred in the majority opinion and injunctive order which would have prohibited prosecution of all charges if the prisoners had not been admitted to bail.

Bonds of $2,500 were signed by John Barnum, wealthy Negro mortician, for four prisoners—John Perdew, 21, of Denver, Colo.; Donald Harris, 23, of New York; Ralph W. Allen, 22, of Melrose, Mass.; and Thomas McDaniel, 19, of Americus, all of whom still face prosecution on other charges.

Barnum also signed bonds of $500 for Zev Aelony, 25, of Minneapolis and the Negro girl, Sallie Mae Durham.

Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott of Columbus, Ga., in a dissenting opinion said the injunction was unwarranted interference with state court procedure.

The order, issued three hours after the majority opinion, restrained officials from further prosecution of peace warrants against Harris, Perdew and Allen.

The five men walked out of the federal building shortly before 4 p.m. surrounded by youthful Negro well-wishers.

Remaining charges against them will be acted on by a grand jury later this month.

Allen said he thought all of them should have been released without having to post any bond.

"I'm not happy about it," he said.

In the ruling, Tuttle and Morgan held the insurrection and unlawful assembly statutes unconstitutional and void.

"The plaintiffs are entitled to an injunction forbidding any further prosecution of them under or by virtue of the said statutes," the decision said.

without the constitutional required votes. Democrats aren't expected to support a GOP-drawn plan for redistricting the legislative seats.

The GOP began 1963 with a 109-101 majority in the House and a 27-33 margin in the Senate.

Two Democrats and one Republican House member died during the session and one Democrat and two Republicans resigned.

Democratic Sen. Fred B. Rooney Jr. resigned his seat from the 18th (Northampton County) District Aug. 6 after winning a special election to fill a vacancy in the U.S. House of Representatives.

State Rep. Gus P. Verona, Pen Argyl, a contractor and Democrat; Earl S. Heffner Jr., Republican attorney from Hellertown; and Robert E. Martin, Hellertown R.D. 1, an automobile dealer running as the "American" Party nominee, are the candidates to succeed him.

GOP leaders face the problem of opposition among Schuylkill County's four legislators — all Republicans — to the prospect the county will lose one of its seats because of a decline in population since the last house plan drawn in 1953.

In the six House seats being contested, each party probably will retain the seats it held.

The greatest uncertainty exists in Snyder County, where Republican Arthur May's death last summer created a vacancy.

Republicans listed Harvey P. Murray Jr., Sellersgrove Borough councilman and son of a former legislator from the county. May's widow, Sara, also is running for the seat under the

Diem, Nhu Commit Suicide After Violent Viet Nam Coup

EXPLOSION AFTERMATH—Seats are still fastened to huge slab of concrete lifted by crane as debris is cleared following explosion at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Indianapolis. Blast occurred in foreground, blowing out 60-foot section of seats at an ice show. Sixty-two persons were killed and 385 injured. (AP Wirephoto)

Investigators Probe Ruins Of Fair Blast Fatal To 64

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Across from a makeshift morgue, experts scratched among piles of broken concrete Friday night, seeking the cause of a gas explosion which killed 64.

A flaming geyser of death erupted in the Coliseum around 11 p.m. Thursday only minutes before the scheduled final curtain of a gay Halloween Holiday on Ice show watched by more than 4,000.

The blast spewed bodies, debris and blood-splashed mink coats onto the rink and carved a gaping cavity in the choice box seats. Hospital counts showed 385 injured.

Fire Chief Arnold Phillips said fumes, leaking from a cooking gas cylinder in a concession center beneath the box seats, apparently ignited, unleashing the upheaval which one spectator first thought was an earthquake.

"All indications point to a tank valve knocked off," said State Fire Marshal Ira Anderson. "However, we don't have enough information to make a flat statement on that."

A spokesman for Gov. Matthew E. Welsh said officials had been unable to determine whether a permit for use of the liquid gas tanks had been obtained, as is required under state law.

Damage to the 24-year-old Coliseum was estimated at a million dollars by fairgrounds officials. A structural engineer was checking the building against the threat of a collapse.

The blast shook homes a mile from the fairgrounds on Indianapolis' North Side. Flames vaulted 90 feet in the air and charred trapped bodies.

Tossed Like Flies

Box seats and bodies were tossed toward the ceiling "like flies," according to one survivor, and plummeted the rink-side bleachers in an avalanche of concrete slabs as big as pianos.

Fire marshals said the liquefied petroleum gas was being used to heat popcorn poppers in the concession supply center beneath the stands.

Only seconds before the blast, 36 gaily garbed members of the Holiday on Ice skating troupe glided onto the rink in the finale of their opening night of a 10-day stand. Only three minutes remained in the show, then the volcano of death erupted.

Jack Ladue, 35, Plattsburg, N.Y., one of the show's stars, said the performance had begun 12 or 15 minutes late.

Held Out In Palace Till Dawn Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Embassy in Saigon relayed a Saigon Radio broadcast Friday night that President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Nhu, have committed suicide.

State Department officials said the terse dispatch declared that Diem and Nhu escaped after being taken into custody at the presidential palace and fled to a church where they took asylum.

The two brothers were reportedly recaptured, the Saigon Radio said, and declared that they subsequently committed suicide. There were no further details.

The message from Saigon Radio, however, placed the time of the double suicide at 10:45 a.m. local time (9:45 p.m., EST). The broadcast account followed 15 minutes later.

TOKYO (AP) — South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem and his powerful brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, hoisted a white flag on the ruins of the Saigon presidential palace Saturday and surrendered to rebellious military chiefs, reports from the Vietnamese capital said.

The coup leaders immediately installed a new government. The end of power came for South Viet Nam's autocratic ruling family after a day and night siege of the stucco presidential palace in downtown Saigon, climaxed by a 90-minute dawn attack by tanks and artillery.

Gen. Guong Van Minh — a Buddhist long at odds with the Roman Catholic Diem — led the violent coup which Americans in Saigon said took a heavy toll of Vietnamese lives.

Civilian Named

Named as provisional prime minister was a civilian, former Vice President Nguyen Ngoc Tho, who has been leading the government's campaign to conciliate enraged Buddhists.

Much of the Ngo Dinh family's unpopularity at home and abroad has stemmed from its treatment of Vietnamese Buddhists, and this conflict had embittered relations with the United States.

U.S. officials took the view that the coup was engineered by military men primarily interested in stepping up the campaign against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Their first tentative analyses attached less attention to the conflicts with Buddhists, who claimed Diem's regime persecuted them, and with students, hundreds of whom were jailed.

U. S. Pressure

The United States put pressure on Diem for reforms in order to broaden popular support for anti-Communist measures, but denied any connection with the coup.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had called on Diem Friday morning.

Americans in Saigon said they believed the insurgents were fully in control of the city and airport as of 6:45 a.m. Saigon time (5:45 p.m. EST Friday).

There was no definite word on Diem's whereabouts but Saigon informants said it was likely he and his brother had been in the palace all the time.

South Korea's Embassy in Saigon reported both Diem and his brother had been arrested.

Telephone reports from Saigon said rebel forces, whose numbers could not be estimated, immediately attacked the palace Friday night and fought a fierce battle with Diem's palace guards and 2,000-man special forces.

The rebels then held off for about five hours, apparently to give Diem a chance to give up, an American in Saigon said.

When Diem demurred, the informant said, the insurgents regrouped and mounted a final, all-out assault, starting with an artillery and mortar barrage against Diem's palace in downtown Saigon.

A spokesman said that while artillery and mortars were leveling the palace, fighter planes zoomed low over the city firing rockets. The rockets apparently missed the palace.

Although Nguyen Ngoc Tho, a prime minister, the government actually was being run by a council of generals who led the revolt, an American spokesman said.

American Troops Alerted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, routed from bed at 3 a.m. Friday by first reports of fighting in Saigon, ordered U.S. military forces toward South Viet Nam to protect American lives if necessary.

The military movement was described as purely a precautionary measure while Kennedy and his top aides sized up developments in what U.S. officials called a Vietnamese uprising of "real proportions."

Kennedy called in key military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers for a 45-minute morning conference to assess the latest cables from the Vietnamese capital.

The White House said only that Kennedy received a "complete report."

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said further meetings were possible.

The State Department said all Americans in Saigon were ordered to remain off the streets until further notice.

There are 3,563 American civilians in South Viet Nam, in addition to 16,500 U.S. military personnel in the country.

No Casualties Reported

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips said no casualties have been reported among the Americans.

Pending clarification of the situation, the United States suspended all military and economic assistance to the South Vietnamese regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

U.S. officials said the uprising appeared to have been well-planned, and to have been carried out entirely by Vietnamese. Phillips said the U.S. government "is not in any way involved in this coup attempt."

Orders for the movement of U.S. military forces went out from the Pentagon to Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander in chief in the Pacific, Felt, by coincidence, was in Saigon.

"This order has been given should it be necessary to protect American lives in South Viet Nam," said Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester.

Other Units Available

In addition to the powerful 7th Fleet, which usually has units patrolling the South China Sea between South Viet Nam and the Philippines, Felt could call on elements of the Air Force transport fleet based in Okinawa and the Philippines.

Mrs. Nhu Bitter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — South Viet Nam's tart-tongued Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, appearing tense and angry, said Friday a coup could not have happened in her country "without American incitement or American backing."

The controversial first lady of the Asian country, whose husband, according to one report, may have been slain in the uprising against the regime she backs, emerged from hotel room seclusion to tell newsmen: "I cannot stay in a country whose government stabbed me in the back."

Mrs. Nhu was resting here with her daughter, Le Thuy, 18, after a cross-country speaking tour when news of the coup broke.

Asked if she would seek asylum, she shouted: "Never!"

She made her statements in the lobby, en route to a Catholic church to attend a worship service.

This is not the first time the U.S. government has tried to overthrow the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, her brother-in-law, she snapped.

"I believe all the devils of hell are against us. But we shall triumph," she said. "I feel very distressed, very puzzled, when I read this morning in the papers that all 15,000 American troops in my country are protecting your embassy in Saigon."

Asked to comment on the report of the possible death of her husband, adviser to the president of her country, she said only that she had no knowledge of such a thing.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 2:14-47; I Corinthians 14.

On the day of Pentecost when the apostles were gathered together in one place, the Holy Spirit gave them the gift of speaking in foreign tongues. Some observers, not understanding, said they were drunk.—Acts 2:1-13.

Peter spoke out and said this was untrue. In the first sermon of the Christian church, he explained that the Holy Spirit had descended, according to prophecy, and that the crucified Christ was resurrected.—Acts 2:14-33.

Peter reminded those assembled in Jerusalem that it was they who were responsible for killing the Son of God. The people were "cut to the heart," and asked Peter and the other apostles what they should do.—Acts 2:36-37.

"Repent and be baptized for the forgiveness of your sins," answered Peter. So that day about three thousand faithful members were added to the newly formed Christian church.—Acts 2:38-47.

Religion Today

Priest, Professor And Pilot

By PHIL GUNBY

WORTHINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Priest, professor, pilot and padre to a jet fighter outfit—that's the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thoralf Thielens.

During the week, the Dubuque, Iowa, native helps young men prepare for the Roman Catholic priesthood of Pontifical College Josephinum, a 75-year-old papal institution near Worthington in central Ohio.

A graduate of the Josephinum himself, he is professor of fundamental dogmatic theology, ancient Christian literature, pastoral theology and the art of teaching religion.

He's one of two priests qualified to pilot the college's twin-engine plane, and he has owned a single-engine plane in partnership with another priest in the past.

Weekends, the effervescent young priest may fill the pulpit of an area church temporarily without a pastor. But one weekend a month is set aside for a special task.

On that weekend—and for two weeks each summer—Msgr. Thielens becomes Maj. Thielens, Catholic chaplain for the Ohio Air National Guard's 121st Tactical Fighter Wing.

When the Ohio wing was called to Air Force duty during the 1961-62 Berlin crisis, its chaplains were among those sent to France.

Living and traveling in Europe while earning his master's and doctorate at Rome's Gregorian University, Msgr. Thielens had learned French, Italian and German. So he became translator and travel guide as well as spiritual leader for many of the men.

With all this, the Iowa-born priest—"Thoralf" was the name of one of my dad's combat buddies in World War I, but everyone called me "Buddy"—found time to write a book explaining the Church's Vatican Ecumenical Council before it began in

Today's Lesson:

Christian Worship

By N. SPEER JONES

The setting of the first part of today's lesson is Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost. Pentecost was a Jewish harvest festival, observed on the 50th day from the second day of the Passover. The word "Pentecost" comes from the Greek pentekoste, meaning fiftieth.

As the apostles were all together "in one place," the Holy Spirit gave them the gift of speaking in other tongues. This attracted a multitude, many of whom were foreigners who recognized their native languages being used by the apostles. When some mocked, saying they were drunk, Peter gave rebuttal, beginning his great Pentecostal sermon assigned for today's lesson.

The words spoken by Joel, the prophet, which Peter refers to are found in Joel 2:28-32. Pentecost apparently was its initial fulfillment, but the phenomena mentioned in verses 19 and 20 have not yet come to pass.

This is the first sermon of the Christian church, a sermon directly inspired by the Holy Spirit. Its major theme, notice, is the certainty of Christ's resurrection. The resurrection is set forth as the explanation of Christ's death, as the cause of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, as the certification of Christ's Messianic position. Peter uses the citation from Joel to persuade the Jews that this resurrection was scripturally predicted, but his own persuasion stems not from prophecy but from his own experience.

Verses 37-47 of Acts 2 deal with the creation and character of the first Christian church. "In the breaking of bread" (verse 42) is thought by some to mean the celebration of the Lord's Supper; others believe it to mean only a common meal.

The Latin word for "community" meant "to share." The early church in Jerusalem tried to develop a community of goods, but it was apparently not successful, for Paul later took up a collection in Asia for the poor at Jerusalem, the only church for which it was attempted.

The reference to continuing worship at the temple (verse 46) is quite natural, for the split between Judaism and Christianity came gradually and many years later.

We come now to the portion of Paul's letter to the Corinthians which inspired the inclusion of the portion of Acts assigned. It concerns the "speaking with tongues." As we saw, in Acts the tongues (or languages) used by the apostles were understood by various foreigners in the assembly.

Paul's major point is that while this gift of speaking with tongues is spectacular, it is not nearly so important as the gift of prophecy, which in the early Church meant revealing God's meaning, or inspired teaching and exhorting.

TIRE KICKERS

It is that time of year again, when a strange malady overcomes most of our population. For want of a better term, we dub it "New Car Fever."

The advertising industry, sometimes called "Dream Merchants," goes all out in pictorial photographic masterpieces and newspapers to entice us to become unhappy with our present autos and to be bewitched by the sleek grandeur of the latest automotive designs.

In car lots and glittering showrooms citizens may be observed drooling over new cars much like a little boy, nose pressed flat against the window of a bake shop as new bread, still steaming, and giving out with that delicious aroma, is placed on display.

Ever notice how some of us inspect a car new or used? Well, for some strange unknown reason, we walk all around the vehicle with a measured, steady step, staring at everything, and yet, nothing, and with greatest deliberation kick each tire as we pass by!

The only thing that this proves is that the tire has air in it and is not inclined to be soft. Yet an inspection is not complete without the "tire kicking ritual."

Dealers are not immune to inspection idiosyncrasies. On taking a look at a "trade-in" they are prone to roll windows up and down as they test drive a car!

This of course only shows that the windows will open and close! Still, purchasers and dealers will continue to kick tires and roll windows in a deep concentration.

The time comes to make our decision. Will we turn in our old road - worn, battered, twisted hulk of Detroit metal for that NEW one - bright and shiny and clean? Decide we must, and soon. There are other people waiting to test the new model so we must take or reject!

Many of us are Christian "tire-kickers" applying nonsense tests that will prove nothing to our church and faith. We will talk loud and long, arguing this point and that, with our very limited theology. The time would be better spent in true study of that which we profess to believe.

The unchurched have never given the church a fair inspection and attendance trial. They just "kick it around" a little, and by this useless prodding, decide that there are too many "hypocrites" attending a church, and so will ignore it and stay home!

Out time is running shorter too. We have a decision to make. The decision to accept or reject Christ. To "trade in" our old sin - worn self for a new creation, spotless in Him.

Don't just kick against reelin, investigate with a keen eye and open mind. Your neighborhood church will welcome you and then you will find a new joy — and a new model YOU!

Adventists To Celebrate Annual Week Of Prayer

The Annual Week of Prayer for the Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist congregation will begin here today with the reading of a message from the world president of Adventists at 11:30 a.m.

"Victorious Living" is the title of R. R. Figuhr's message to open the world-wide annual special week, a week that is dedicated solely to the idea of prayer, a time when every member of the church is given opportunity to meet together in seasons of earnest prayer and fellowship.

Elder Bruce J. Fox, the pastor, is arranging for the prayer services to be conducted nightly, with readings each night from leading ministers and missionaries of the denomination to be featured.

Topics to be heard are: "When Ye See These Things—Know," "The Importance of Bible Study," "Strong Homes for a Strong Church," "The Bank of Heaven," "Intercessions — for All Men," and "The Challenge to Adventist Youth."

The week will be closed with the presentation of a special "Sacrificial Offering" for Christian missions.

BOGOTA, Colombia—Roman Catholic theologians met here with Lutheran churchmen from nine American countries to discuss the place of the Word of God in the Christian faith.

The encounter took place during a four-day conference of Caribbean area pastors sponsored in late October by the Lutheran World Federation's Committee on Latin America.

About a dozen Catholic priests, including Jesuits and Dominicans, responded to the organizers' invitation to hear and discuss, on the third day, a Lutheran address on "The Word of God as Law and Gospel."

This was followed with attendance of conference participants at an address by a Jesuit priest on "Scripture and Tradition: Interaction and Interdependence" at the Xavier University where also there were questions and discussion.

The invitation to the Roman

Also present by invitation were a number of Colombian Presbyterian churchmen.

The Lutheran lecture was given by the Rev. Robert T. Hoferkamp, missionary professor of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod at the Lutheran Seminary in Mexico City. The Catholic one was presented by the Rev. Carlos Bravo, professor of Holy Scripture in the Jesuit university's theological faculty.

It was the seventh annual Caribbean area conference arranged by LWFLA, which was scheduled on Nov. 1 to move its head office here from New York, in connection with the assumption of the committee's acting directorship by the Rev. Guido Tornquist of Bogota.

Conference theme was "Christ Today in Latin America," derived from the theme of the federation's recent Helsinki Assembly. Inter-Lutheran doctrinal discussions centered around three topics: The Forms of the Word, Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

Rev. Mr. Davis also served the Maplewood Methodist Church for a number of years while it was a part of the charge.

The pulpit at the Sterling Charge has not been filled. The Rev. Dr. Earl V. Tolley, Scranton District Superintendent, will be the speaker this week.

Lesoine Charges Price, Kresge Ignoring Issues

STROUDSBURG — Speaking at an open meeting of the Monroe County Democratic Executive Committee at the Y.M.C.A. in Stroudsburg last night, John R. Lesoine, Democratic candidate for re-election as county commissioner, charged that the campaign being conducted by John M. Price and Harold B. Kresge "is a peculiar combination of ignoring the issues, displaying poor judgment, misrepresentation and misleading the people."

"Why is it," he asked, "that Mr. Price is so opposed to federal funds helping the people of Monroe County pay for improvements to the hospital, and other projects?"

"Doesn't he realize that these are tax dollars which have been paid to the federal Government by the local people and which are now being returned by the federal government?"

"Doesn't he realize that the

Peterson: Demos Waged Open Battle

STROUDSBURG — Democratic County Chairman W. C. G. Peterson said last night that "the Democratic team has waged an open, hard-hitting campaign based on past performance and future achievement. He also charged that the Republicans have campaigned in a do-nothing manner, relying on innuendos and gobbledygook, and now they are engaged in an act of desperation, a vicious campaign of smears and slurs."

Peterson released a statement yesterday afternoon in which he commented on the political campaign now drawing to a close.

Peterson's statement is as follows: "Throughout the course of this campaign, the Democratic candidates have displayed an excellent spirit of cooperation and teamwork. They are a team in every respect. Indeed, remembering the old proverb that 'imitation is the most sincere form of flattery,' I was very gratified when the other side suddenly developed newspaper advertisements about their 'slate' not long after our team ads started to appear. Apparently, they have not yet been able to develop a platform of party pledges."

"Of what does this Republican slate consist? It consists in part of a Republican commissioner now in office who is being criticized because he went along with good Democratic Commissioners' achievements. It consists in part of another Republican candidate for commissioner who is said to be a sound and successful businessman. He apparently would try to run Monroe County without either accepting Federal funds on the one hand or raising County taxes on the other hand. If he can do this, he must be a magician, not just a businessman."

"My purpose in this statement, however, is not to attack the opposition. It is to show again to the voters of Monroe County the fine Democratic team which is running this year on a record of eight years of efficient and progressive County Government, and on a promise of continuing the same performance, if returned to office by the voters."

"In my opinion the Democratic team has waged an open, hard-hitting campaign based on past performance and future achievements while the Republicans have campaigned in a do-nothing manner, relying on innuendos and gobbledygook, and now they are engaged in an act of desperation, a vicious campaign of smears and slurs."

"One of the many leaders of the Republican party, Mr. Kresge, has stated that 'the present commissioners did a commendable job.' Why has he permitted the Republican candidates to conduct the type of campaign in which they are engaged."

"I have personally delivered a twelve-point platform of party pledges to our local newspaper. I strongly urge the people of Monroe County not to be swayed by any one man's improvements to the hospital, and other projects?"

"Doesn't he realize that these are tax dollars which have been paid to the federal Government by the local people and which are now being returned by the federal government?"

"Doesn't he realize that the

"And," said Mr. Lesoine, "I am not talking through my hat as does my friend Harold Kresge when he speaks of the cost of operating the county government, as he did the other day when he said the 1955 County Commissioner's budget was $285,000 when in fact the official audit for that year shows that it was about $560,000."

"I wonder whether either Mr. Price or Mr. Kresge knows that the cost to the county of maintaining prisoners in state institutions went up from about $24,000 in 1955 to about $84,000 in 1962, that court expenses went up from $18,000 in 1955 to $36,000 in 1962, that children's aid went up from $30,000 in 1955 to $66,000 in 1962."

"Doesn't John M. Price know that such increased expenses must be paid by the County Commissioners with our County tax dollars, but that the Commissioners have absolutely no control over the increases?"

"Doesn't Harold B. Kresge know that the bookkeeping practices of the Republican Commissioners in 1955 were condemned in the official audit for that year, including a condemnation by a Republican Auditor who is now running again for the same job?"

"Did Mr. Kresge take the time to read the 1955 audit and discover that there had been money borrowed before writing an ad in the Daily Record that the Republican Commissioners had not borrowed any money?"

And that, peculiarly, the bank had disappeared from the Commissioners' Office."

"What program do Mr. Kresge and Mr. Price offer the voters of Monroe County? Will they refuse to take Federal money and therefore stop building the improvements to the hospital, and the County Home, and the Airport at Mt. Pocono? Will they continue building them and raise local taxes to pay for them? Will they refuse to pay increases in court expenses and maintenance of prisoners, will they discontinue children's aid, will they again resort to borrowing and then conveniently lose the evidence of the loan?"

"I say to you that a Democratic Board of County Commissioners offers you in the future the same kind of efficient and economical Government that we have given you for the past 8 years. We will not turn down Federal funds. We will not try to cut corners on the home for the aged or the Children's Aid Society. We will continue to operate the Government of the County in an efficient and effective manner."

"As to the vicious slurs and smears made against me by George Brands, I can only say that I have never acted in other than a wholly proper and honest manner while a Commissioner and that George Brands was guilty of the grossest type of conflict of interests while assessor by virtue of his real estate dealings. I am sure that the people of Monroe County, who know the facts will not be misled by his wild statements."

Barrett Community Club Gets Streetlighting Cost

CANADENSIS — The Barrett Community Club, in a recent consultation with Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. was given an approximate cost for lighting the township with street lights. Township supervisors, who are cooperating with the club, businessmen and residents, requested P.P.&L. to prepare a cost and location survey for street lights following their October meeting.

Club members have been advised that P.P.&L.'s survey is near completion, and should be received by the supervisors in the near future.

The approximate figures, however, for lighting all of Barrett Township according to the utility's recommendation of strength, will be about $4,500 a year for 102 lights. These will be at locations P.P.&L. feels are needed for absolute safety to both motorists and pedestrians.

P.P.&L. advised the club that the $4,500 cost per year can be reduced by using weaker lights or less lights, or maintaining the same luminaire of the lights and deleting from the number of locations to be lighted.

The survey is a master plan, and can be revised by residents of Barrett Township. The Community Club has been sponsoring the safety improvement project since last February. They have met with the supervisors and the Planning Board, and held a joint meeting with representatives of the service clubs of the township.

"I say to you that a Democratic Board of County Commissioners offers you in the future the same kind of efficient and economical Government that we have given you for the past 8 years. We will not turn down Federal funds. We will not try to cut corners on the home for the aged or the Children's Aid Society. We will continue to operate the Government of the County in an efficient and effective manner."

"As to the vicious slurs and smears made against me by George Brands, I can only say that I have never acted in other than a wholly proper and honest manner while a Commissioner and that George Brands was guilty of the grossest type of conflict of interests while assessor by virtue of his real estate dealings. I am sure that the people of Monroe County, who know the facts will not be misled by his wild statements."

Barrett Pool Poll Tuesday

CANADENSIS — Members of the Barrett Junior Women's Club will be at the Barrett Elementary Center, the township's only voting place, on Tuesday to poll residents on whether they favor or disapprove a community swimming pool.

The question is not on the regular ballot and the results of the poll will determine whether interest in the project is sufficient for the club to continue its campaign for a pool in the township.

Members of the club will ask voters two questions:

1. Are you in favor of a community swimming pool to be owned by the township and supported by a two-mill recreation tax?

2. Will you sign a petition asking that this subject be placed on the 1964 primary ballot?

Space will be provided on the club's sheets for names and addresses and at the bottom a space for any comments on the project.

The forms may be filled out personally or the Women's Club member will do it for the voter. The poll is voluntary and will be operated in the same manner as the semi-annual "kaffee klatch" which has been stationed at the polls.

S-burg Post Office Renovation Under Review

STROUDSBURG—The Post Office Dept. is currently reviewing a proposal by the Philadelphia regional office that it spend $301,440 to extend and modernize the present federal building in Stroudsburg, U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney announced yesterday.

In a letter to Rooney, Joseph P. Doherty, executive assistant to the assistant postmaster general in charge of the Bureau of Facilities, said the Philadelphia office has recommended the expenditure.

The original Post Office in Stroudsburg was built for $90,000 during the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Rinker and Kiefer were the architects for the building.

Since then, the government has changed its procedure and now uses its own architects for facilities, rather than hiring local architects.

Batory Vs. Westbrook

This battle of the best candidates will result in the loss of one first class public servant.

Jeannette F. Batory, Republican register and recorder, is challenged by J. Nelson Westbrook, Stroudsburg funeral director and former county treasurer.

We admire both candidates and think they have more integrity, wisdom and intelligence, and better records of public service and civic activity, than almost any other county candidates in either party.

We wish they were both running for county commissioner.

Jeannette Batory has conducted the business of her office efficiently and commendably. We see no reason for any voter to cast a critical vote against her and see no reason for putting her out of office after only one term.

At the same time, Nelson Westbrook has experience in county government, having served well as county treasurer, and has been an active and respected leader of civic projects like the Community Chest.

We believe both candidates are well qualified for the job and we regret that the county will lose the services of the one whom the voters defeat.

Good luck to both of them. We wish they both could win.

Sheriff, Prothonotary

In the race for sheriff, we favor the younger, more energetic Democratic candidate James V. Cadue.

We have no criticism of Edward F. Metzger, Republican candidate, who has a commendable record of public service as a businessman, a justice of the peace, and chief of the Pocono Township Volunteer Fire Dept. for more than 20 years.

Cadue has had experience in Monroe County government as a former county auditor.

He did a good job in that post, even to the point of questioning some of his own party's conduct of county business.

We believe Cadue is better qualified to carry out all the duties of the county sheriff's office.

In the contest for prothonotary and clerk of courts, a young and relatively inexperienced Republican candidate, Ruth B. Slutter, is running against Frank J. Smith, former superintendent of Monroe County highways.

Smith did a good job as highway superintendent—a position of considerable responsibility and authority. Mrs. Slutter has not had the same experience in public office.

We support Smith for prothonotary and clerk of courts.

For Doctor Lim

We salute the many school director candidates who are running for office Tuesday.

They are the unpaid, hard working public servants who operate one of the most vital and most expensive public services in America.

The fiscal affairs and educational policy of any school district are complicated and often difficult for laymen to understand. They make a school director's job difficult and time-consuming.

Pressures from parents, teachers, the state education department, and the taxpayers make the school director's job even more difficult.

The job in the bigger school districts where jointure boards and union boards handle the affairs of a number of formerly independent school districts requires first rate talent, courage and intelligence.

These qualities, along with devotion to the job, have made Dr. John P. Lim, Stroud Union school director-at-large an outstanding board member.

He has ten years of school board experience, two years as president and two as secretary. He has been an energetic exponent of careful financial operations, practical business methods and sound educational policy.

Although busy day and night as a doctor, he has given many hours to the improvement and efficient operation of the Stroud Union school district.

We hope the voters will decide to keep this experienced school director on the board. And we hope that voters in other school districts have the wisdom to elect men like Dr. Lim to their school boards.

School directors are the officials who raise more taxes and spend more money in Monroe County than all other local governing bodies combined. The Stroud Union school budget of $1.6 million is $600,000 more than the whole budget for Monroe County government.

Schools are big business today. They require the best school directors the voters can elect.

Is Constitution Too Long? Some Say That Is No Drawback

Editor, The Daily Record:

In your editorial Wednesday, Oct. 30, entitled "LIKE FOR CONVENTION" you state in the sixth paragraph: "It (our present Pennsylvania Constitution) is too long, too complicated, too detailed, too restrictive, and too old."

On June 5, 1963 at the Penn Harris Hotel in Harrisburg our former Attorney General, the Hon. William A. Schnader, spoke to cover 300 persons attending "Crusade Constitution" sponsored by the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women: "Some citizens deplore the fact our Commonwealth's Constitution is too long. You should see those belonging to New York and others of our neighboring states."

In the Report of the Commission on Constitutional Revision 1959, page 223, Chairman Robert E. Woodside wrote:

"I deeply regret that I consider to be a basic inconsistency in the Commission's recommendations. Many students of government believe that our present Constitution is too long, made so primarily because it contains provisions which are legislative in nature."

It was contended that these provisions should be removed and the Legislature entrusted with the responsibility of dealing with them as it sees fit.

"Unfortunately, the Commission abandoned this concept when considering suggested changes in government which it deemed desirable."

"The concepts of 'trusting the legislature' and shortening the Constitution were ignored, as recommendations were adopted which added thousands of words to the Constitution and dealt with procedures in the minutest detail."

The Woodside Commission (fifteen members including three top names in current political news: Genevieve Blatt, Richardson Dilworth and Edwin W. Tompkins) realized a need for changes in our present Constitution, worked for two years to reduce its size, but only succeeded in adding to both its length and weight! True, other states have written new constitutions via the convention method. Both New Jersey and Connecticut have recently adopted new state constitutions. I must remind you of the results!

New Jersey ended with one elective office in state government . . . that of Governor! Connecticut ended with no county government, all under the State! (This information from Hon. William A. Schnader on June 5.)

The voters across our fair state of Pennsylvania may vote as they wish next Tuesday—but if the answer to the Constitutional Convention is "yes" instead of "no," I pray to God the greatest wisdom since Solomon for those who must serve on the writing of a new state constitution.

Solomon wrote wisely, "There is no new thing under the sun"; sometimes the smartest persons are students . . . the strongest child-disciplinarians can be spinsters; until the student becomes the teacher and the spinster becomes a wife and mother.

Agreed that vital changes are necessary in our present Constitution, and if properly made can save our Commonwealth money—but, this can be done amendment by amendment so that the simplest of us can understand these complex problems of state.

Listen: "All power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their peace, safety and happiness. For the advancement of these ends they have at all times, and inalienable and indefeasible right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such a manner as they think proper."

That was Article 1, Section 2, headed political powers, from our "old" constitution; written in 1776—adopted in 1774.

Article 12, Sec. 3 reads: "Any person who shall fight a duel or send a challenge for that purpose, or be aider or abettor in fighting a duel, shall be deprived of the right of holding any office of honor or profit in this State and may be otherwise punished as shall be prescribed by law."

Dear Editor, you may be glad the dueling law is still in force! Writings by your city editor which were truly "Off the Record" in Monday, October 7, and again Wednesday, October 30, have demanded a great deal of self control on my part. Once November 5th is over I just may forgo caution and look around for a glove to match Clark's cheek!

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Record Letters Policy

Every letter to the Editor of The Daily Record will be printed unless it is libelous, in bad taste, or a purely political endorsement.

The Daily Record reserves the right to limit debate on one subject when the number of letters makes it impossible to print them all.

Please typewrite letters, double spaced, keeping them brief and to the point. Legibly hand-written letters will be accepted also.

All letters must be signed, with addresses. Names will be withheld only in unusual circumstances.

Commissioners Failed To Act On Planning And Zoning

Editor, The Daily Record:

It was with a great deal of surprise that I read the statements of Mr. Rader and Mr. Lesoine supporting planning and zoning in Monroe County.

During the last four years I have been following the Commissioners' reported activities rather closely and have been extremely bewildered by their apparent lack of interest in planning for the future of Monroe County.

While it may be true that the Monroe County Planning Commission was appointed by the previous administration, does that mean that the present commissioners could not require the members of the commission to do the job they were appointed for?

And just how could the Monroe County Planning Commission function after January 1, 1961 when the terms of the members expired and "none were reappointed and no new members have been added?" (Daily Record, Oct. 30, 1963).

Why were we not represented at the Regional Planning Conference in Allentown in March of 1960? (Daily Record, March 30, 1960).

How can Commissioners Lesoine and Rader say they favor planning and zoning when they have done nothing about it? Actions speak louder than words!

During these last four years the Daily Record has had at least seven editorials suggesting that the county commissioners do something constructive about county planning and zoning. (Daily Records, March 2, 1960, March 9, 1960, March 28, 1960, March 30, 1960, April 6, 1960, May 26, 1961, October 17, 1963).

The result was absolutely nothing! There have been interested civic organizations which have had experts speak to them about planning and zoning—still no action from the commissioners!

Our present commissioners have had eight years to find a planning program that would ensure prosperous growth for Monroe County and they have done nothing!

Now, (Daily Record, Oct. 30, 1963) Mr. Lesoine states that he had wanted to put the question up for a vote in this election but must wait until 1964 (he also had eight years to find that out, too).

But how can anyone vote intelligently until he knows what he is voting for? We are not ready to vote on planning and zoning yet.

Instead, this is the time for the county commissioners to get that Monroe County Planning Commission reactivated and busy. This is the time for the Monroe County Planning Commission to consult with the experts.

This is the time for the Monroe County Planning Commission to come up with a workable, sensible planning and zoning program. This is the time to explain that plan to the people, to show them how they and all of Monroe County will benefit from the plan.

This is the time to conduct open meetings so that the people may ask their questions and get straight forward, honest answers (for there are many facets of planning and zoning that are not always understood completely). Then it is time to vote.

Our present commissioners have had many years to do all these things I have just mentioned, but they have done nothing.

We must put some new men in office before we will get any action!

'Cancer Survivor On Krebiozen' Asks Support For Legislation

Editor, The Daily Record:

Until Krebiozen came along, spontaneous remission in cancer was one in 100,000.

Since August 12, a "phantom group" of so-called medical experts have been studying 508 cases on Krebiozen. The identity as well as the whereabouts of this group was kept secret, so that they would not be subjected to outside pressures from either side.

It is important to know the June 7 deadline set by the Food and Drug Administration was for Krebiozen only. Only 400-20 per cent of the new drug applications met this deadline.

None of the other 2,499 drug applicants were threatened with a ban if they did not meet the June 7 deadline. Dr. Frances Kelsey in a speech as late as June 28 accounted for only 1,600 of the 2,500 applications. Nine hundred had still not met the June 7 deadline.

Knowing that the Food and Drug Administration—dominated by the American Medical Association—is both judge and jury in such matters, Congressman Roland V. Libonatti introduced a bill, HR 3408, to the effect that when a biological product like Krebiozen is refused licenses by the National Institute of Health, this bill would provide for judicial review of the agency order.

The administration has no objection to the bill, but proposed crippling amendments. It is therefore imperative that the bill now before the House Subcommittee on Health, chaired by Rep. Kenneth Roberts, be sent through the committee without the crippling amendments.

Write your own congressman and congressman Oren Harris, also Rep. Kenneth Roberts.

Barrett Pool Committee Answers Tax Support Protest

Editor, The Daily Record:

We would like to make a statement in reply to the letter by Mr. R. R. Price that appeared in Monday's editorial page.

The members of the Barrett Junior Women's Club undertook last spring to gather some information about building a community pool in Barrett Township.

Our purpose in gathering this information was to present it to the public and to record their reactions by means of a public opinion poll.

Should their reactions prove favorable, we would then like to see this issue decided in the 1964 primary election.

Mr. Price infers that the members of our club and other residents and organizations of the area who are supporting civic betterment projects such as a community pool own no property.

This is not so. We are a group of young married women, most of whom plan to settle in the area permanently. Over one-third of us have already bought homes here. In other local service organizations you will find that almost 100 per cent of the members are property owning taxpayers.

Mr. Price feels that the people in the community who want a pool should form an association and raise the money themselves. This has been done in a small way in our community, and in numerous communities across the country.

However, these private swim clubs can in no way be considered community pools for they serve only those who can afford both the initial membership bond and the high annual fees.

They do not offer recreational facilities for everyone nor do they help improve the community as a whole.

Our club would like to see a true community pool in Barrett, not especially because it would be cheaper for us as individuals but because we believe that it would benefit the entire population.

Millions Of Acres Of Land Owned By State Already Open

Editor, The Daily Record:

This article is addressed to the author of Monday's Daily Record editorial in an effort to tell him where to go the next time he jumps in his car and "can't find land to tread on unless it be that of a friend or that which has been bought up by the state or federal government and opened for the public."

The first step might as well be to obtain a copy of the "Official Map of Pennsylvania" published by the Pennsylvania Departments of Highway, Forests and Waters and Game Commission.

This map shows state forest land and natural areas totaling 1,998,975 acres on which he may tread, 2,997,079 acres of state recreation lands distributed among 73 state parks, 48 state forests picnic areas, 13 state historical properties and 985,000 acres of state game farms and game lands.

All of the state parks permit picnicking; most of them permit boating, bathing, camping and fishing. As of 1959, Pennsylvania boasted 3,654 miles of forest roads, 4,810 miles of boundary lines on state forest areas and 2,800 miles of forest trails.

You won't have to leave Monroe County or drive more than half an hour to lose yourself in solitude as a Jan. 1, 1963 tabulation of state Forest Lands in Monroe County is as follows:

Barrett Township, 871 acres, 91 perches.
Middle Smithfield, 1,544 acres, 91 perches.
Price Township, 4,166 acres, 111 perches.
Tunkhannock, 2,054 acres, 28 perches.
Nearby counties contains the following State Forest Lands: Pike, 62,985 acres, 41 perches.
Carbon, 995 acres, 151 perches.
Luzerne, 1,425 acres.
Lackawanna, 6,024 acres.

Of the 56 state parks, 12 of the latest developed came as a result of Act 256 passed by the general assembly in 1955. The design of Act 256 was "to locate a state park within 25 miles of every resident of the commonwealth." These parks are in the following counties:

Cambria, Lawrence, Bucks, Clinton, Elk, Tioga, York, Lycoming, Potter, Wyoming, Greene and—closer to home—Monroe and Pike. The last named counties provide us with Goldsboro State Park.

It would seem logical that we avail ourselves of our nearest of these 12 parks as we have paid more than six million dollars for them.

New Jersey, our sister state across the Delaware River, has more miles of mountain to climb than anyone can guess; despite its many beautiful trails, hikers are seldom seen on the New Jersey Mountain. Orville Freeman could tell you the number of miles there in the "Woman's Day" June 1963 Freeman has stated: "There are 179,000 trails in our National Forest—enough to allow any Kennedy-hiker a 50-mile hike each week without once retracing steps."

Adjacent to the mammoth Allegheny National Forest in Northwestern Pennsylvania, the Allegheny River Reservoir, now under construction near Warren, and completely financed by federal funds will create a 32-mile long lake and an expected $15,000,000 recreational park.

The 30-mile long Raystown reservoir will be located on the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River in South-Central Pennsylvania and will also create a federal recreation area of considerable size.

Company President Backs Barrett Community Pool

Editor, The Daily Record:

I have followed with keen interest the community pool project which is being sponsored by The Barrett Junior Women's Club a few days ago.

In the name of my company and my employees I want to urge all of our good neighbors to vote favorably on the two questions which will be asked at the polls November 5.

The Junior Women have taken a step in the right direction. The only equitable means by which such a worthy program can be realized and maintained is by taxation. It is a small price to pay considering the benefit which will be derived by everyone.

I will support the effort of the Junior Women in every way possible. The realization of this plan will add to the stature of our community.

Halloween Vandals

Don't bite the hand that feeds you. Trick or treaters may find themselves in this predicament if borough officials decide to tighten vandalism ordinances during Halloween.

This year has been one of the worst in the history of the masked, ugly, costumed event, Stroudsburg Police Chief John B. Tretheway, noted the other day that the situation is getting out of hand.

Tretheway, a fellow who likes fun as well as the thousands of other parents within his jurisdiction, isn't blaming the small children who enjoy Halloween nearly as much as Christmas.

The Stroudsburg chief puts the blame on teenagers and parents who let their offspring run rampant around the town.

It would be a sad occasion if the little tikes had to suffer for the deeds of older pranksters who ought to know better. But that is the way justice acts sometimes.

There has not been any strong feeling against hanning trick or treat among officials throughout Monroe County. But some of the leaders of communities are thinking of cutting one day off the two-day trick or treat ruling.

If this doesn't work, then the next step could be cancellation of the climax to Halloween.

The vandals were extra busy this year. Aside from turning over garbage cans, tying doors, and chalking windows, the thoughtless individuals ruined private property with paint and have even broken windows in passing vehicles.

Just take the case of a car stoned by a vandal. It could rip through a windshield, strike the driver and cause the vehicle to overturn.

Maybe a mother and her three children were in the car at the time. Wouldn't it be a nice feeling to have possible four deaths on your conscience just because you tossed a rock for the fun of it?

"Fun is fun but parents should imbed in their children's minds the difference between fun and vandalism."

In some areas where the police are not so lenient the difference is jail and then juvenile quarters that despite justice's public relations cannot be called home.

About Town

They struck oil on the grounds at a country church in Kentucky. Soon the royalties were accumulating, so the congregation met to determine what to do with all that money.

They sewed up the matter by passing three resolutions: (1) All the church debts would be paid. (2) The remainder of the money would be divided equally among the members. (3) They wouldn't take in any more members.

A remark that will do down in history: When the Navy launch capsized on Long Island Sound last Friday the sailors clung to the overturned boat in stormy seas for two hours. When asked why they didn't use the life preservers, one made the classic remark, "We just didn't think of them."

Dear Abby

'The Drop-In' Problem Again!

DEAR ABBY: Since most of our friends are very close, we've made it a habit to drop in on each other at any old time and overlook the surroundings. As a result of this casual attitude, I'm afraid I have become a very poor hostess. The fact was realized when my doctor's wife called on me two days ago with a small gift for my new baby. Of all times for company to come! The weather was damp, so I kept all five children inside, and my living room was utter chaos. My daughter was ill, and I had pillows piled up at one end of the couch. The other end was piled high with clean laundry to be folded. The chairs were stacked with diapers to be folded. The carpet was out of sight under magazines, newspapers and toys. If I had been in the midst of straightening up the mess, it wouldn't have been so bad. But I was cutting out costumes for the children's Thanksgiving play as if I had nothing else to do. I was so embarrassed when this woman appeared at my door that I didn't even offer her a chair. I thanked her for the gift and also wrote her a thank-you note. Should I call and apologize? I can't forget how rude I must have appeared to her. I got up at five o'clock this morning worrying about what she must have thought of me. What should I do?

SO ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Here we go again! Your home is your palace, and if you want to place your laundry to the ceiling in your living room, it's your privilege. A caller who could have thrown you into such a tizzy is not "a loser" enough for a drop-in visit. She was thoughtless not to have given you at least an hour's notice. Call her when your house is in order some afternoon and invite her for coffee.

DEAR ABBY: When I invite my relatives for dinner, they ask, "What's the celebration?" Or, "Who else is coming?" They seem to expect me to sell them on the idea of coming, or perhaps they want a guaranteed entertainment. Why can't relatives be as gracious as friends in accepting invitations?

DEAR MOLLY: Some are. You can't pick your relatives, but you CAN pick your dinner guests.

DEAR ABBY: I am 39 years old and the mother of three children. My husband and I have been happily married for 12 years. This summer while my husband was away on business I became interested in my best friend's husband. He has two children. My problem is obvious. Should we break up two homes involving five children and two innocent grown-ups to gain happiness for ourselves? Or should we sacrifice this love of ours for the sake of our families?

BIG DECISION

DEAR BIG: Sacrifice your "love." Happiness can never be built on the heartbreak of others.

People In The Spotlight

George C. Rapport, 46, Massapequa Park, N. Y., a Long Island school teacher, learned Thursday that the bundle of moldy bills he found on the Gettysburg battlefield last summer is worth $54,200. Barring an unforeseen hitch it will be turned over to Rapport after the Internal Revenue Service gets its slice.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has predicted House passage of civil rights legislation next month and "possible" Senate approval before the end of the year. He described the measure endorsed by the House Judiciary Committee as an "effective, though not perfect" solution of "the major issues of the major crisis facing this country internally."

Fred Bristow of Stourbridge, England, is back in the ranks of the living, but not entirely. He watched recently as a stone mason chipped his off the list of dead on the city's memorial to World War I, but is still listed among the dead on a memorial window in the parish church. His younger brother, Frank, was killed in the war, but the telegram announcing the death listed him as "F. Bristow" and his mother thought it was Fred.

Arthur B. Homer will retire as board chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp. next April 14, his 68th birthday. He makes $300,000 a year as chief executive of the nation's second largest steel firm.

Dean John U. Munroe of Harvard College said this week serious violations of dormitory rules are bringing the school "closer and closer to outright scandal." He said: "Trouble has arisen because what was once considered a pleasant privilege — permitting women to visit the dormitories — has come to be a license to use the college rooms for wild parties and sexual intercourse."

Mrs. Doris Quin, manager of Chelton Hills Cemetery on the outskirts of Philadelphia, solved the Halloween vandalism problem simply. She threw a mischief night party in the cemetery. "The youngsters had a ball," she reported afterward.

State News Roundup

Boy Is Bitten By Rabid Skunk

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — A two-year-old boy, bitten last week by a rabid skunk, received Thursday the first of a series of 14 anti-rabies shots.

Chris Krepelka, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Krepelka of Berlin, R. D. 3, will receive one shot a day until the series of 14 is completed.

He was bitten in the yard at his home last Thursday when he bent over to pick up what he apparently thought was a cat.

The family, at the direction of their physician, Dr. Paul Klose, trapped the skunk alive, and the animal died the following day.

A series of tests then were made on the skunk's body and revealed that it had been infected with rabies.

Fire Snuffs Out 2 Infants Lives

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Fire swept the trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins Friday, suffocating their two infant daughters.

Carol Jean, 19 months, and Christine, 8-months, died as their father tried vainly to rescue them. Hopkins suffered burns of the face and hands attempting to enter the fire swept trailer.

The children were dead when taken to Coatesville Hospital, Deputy Coroner Clifford DeBaptiste reported. He listed the deaths as due to suffocation.

One Killed In Trailer Skid

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One man was killed and another injured critically Friday when their tractor trailer skidded into a railing of a Schuylkill Expressway overpass, tearing loose and dropping the cab 75 feet to railroad tracks below.

Harold E. Weaver of Ephrata, Pa., said by police to be in his late 20s, was killed. His companion, Vernon Esch Jr., 24, RD 1, New Holland, Pa., was taken unconscious to Lankenau Hospital.

The accident occurred in suburban Lower Merion Township during a heavy rain. The tractor-trailer, a refrigerated meat vehicle, was headed toward Lancaster.

Scranton Raps Rough Macing

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton has indicated political fund-raisers should quit rough tactics in seeking contributions from state employees.

"I will never support an effort to hammer them into giving to any political organization," the Governor told this weekly news conference, adding:

"It is perfectly within the law for anyone to suggest to anybody else that they give, but not within my way of thinking — with regard to their job."

The Governor discussed the matter when newsmen asked him to outline what steps his administration has taken to prevent macing of state employees. In political parlance, macing is coercion of a state employee to contribute to a party, usually under threat of loss of employment. It is illegal in Pennsylvania.

Police Have Crime Backlog

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edward C. Boyle of Allegheny County said Thursday that state police have the biggest backlog of crime at the Butler and Greensburg barracks in history as a result of last week's massive vice raid in Pittsburgh.

"The state police paid a price for their raids," he said. Boyle said the backlog resulted from the time spent on their investigation in Pittsburgh.

Boyle apparently was referring to a statement made by State Police Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy that the state police had investigated the Pittsburgh area for a two-month period before staging the vice raid.

The district attorney made the remarks at a public affairs forum at the downtown YMCA in Pittsburgh. He is running for his third term as district attorney.

Girl Killed In Car Crash

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A truck rammed a car into the rear of another auto in a chain-reaction collision Thursday on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway East, police reported, killing a girl and injuring two others.

Francine Dlugonski, 2, a passenger in a car operated by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Dlugonski of Wilkinsburg, died about four hours after the accident in Columbia Hospital.

Mrs. Dlugonski, 38, was listed in serious condition and another daughter, Barbara, 4, was reported in good condition.

State police said the truck, operated by Thomas Basiorka, 44, of Greensburg, R. D. 3, rammed the Dlugonski auto into a car operated by James D. Bohn, 55, of Centre Hall, Centre County.

THIS IS THE AUDITORS'
OPINION OF THE
OF MONROE COUNTY
IN 1955

Notes: In the course of examining the affairs of Monroe County, the County Auditors discovered certain procedures and methods of bookkeeping and financing had been employed during 1955 which were not consistent with generally recognized principles. While these procedures and methods did not result in financial loss to the County, the Auditors condemn such practices. They are as follows:

1. In transferring $43,700.00 from the Liquid Fuels Fund to the General Account Fund as a temporary loan and in transferring $4,000.00 from the Liquid Fuels Account to the Institution District Fund as a temporary loan. This procedure is expressly prohibited by Statute and by the Constitution of Pennsylvania.
2. The official books of the County were not posted and totaled for the year 1955; and receipts were not filed properly or accurately. The transfers as set forth above were not posted. This resulted in a loss of time and created additional problems for the auditors.
3. The Official books and records of the County did not—and do not—reflect a $15,000.00 note executed in June 1955 to secure a loan. This loan was granted and promptly repaid although the cancelled and receipted note apparently is not on file in the Commissioners' Office.

We, the Auditors of Monroe County, Pennsylvania, having examined the various bills, vouchers, and accounts of the Commissioners, Treasurer and Sheriff, do hereby certify that the foregoing to be a true and correct Statement of the receipts and disbursements of the County, during the year 1955 and find them correct to the best of our knowledge and belief.

Just Between Us—

by Bobby Westbrook

Ordinarily, I'm not in the office in the mornings, but when something special is coming up in the afternoon which I plan to cover, mornings are the only time I can catch up with the regular routine. That's how it happened that I was alone in the office when a worried voice over the telephone asked:

"What happened to that man on the Johnny Carson show?" Since I hadn't seen the program she had to explain that he and Johnny were duking for apples and the man never surfaced. She waited and waited, but they never explained whether he drowned, had a heart attack or what.

Since she hadn't slept all night worrying about him, I dug into all the left-over tape but couldn't find a clue. However, after an abbreviated survey of people who had seen the incident on television, I can report that they thought it was a Halloween gag.

And in case any of the people attending the World Community Day service couldn't sleep last night worrying about Joan Cramer, I can report that, outside of the humiliation of collapsing in front of an audience, she's all right. Joan has presided at many a meeting with grace and distinction, but yesterday she just came all over faint and couldn't even see the words for the responsive reading. Even unfaint, they were hard enough for the rest of us to read, being sort of orchid on a light blue ground.

It always amazes me how some people can react in an emergency. Mildred Knepp, who just happened to be nearest, took Joan's place on the platform and continued the service with such depth of meaning and expression that you'd think she'd been understudying the role for weeks.

As long as we're on the subject of public collapsing, Oriole Nitrauer reported that at the Penn State Football game last Saturday, youthful bandmen were fainting all over the place. It was band day and high school bands had started at the crack of dawn, practiced in the morning, and then in the tension and the heat of their big moment, ingloriously crumpled.

And, this being Friday night, I think that's what I'll do right now. Privately.

Nation - Building Challenge To Local Church Women

Stroudsburg — In the struggles going all over the world for the rights of individuals against present social structures, the revolutionaries identify themselves with the present struggle of the American negro, Dr. Margaret Shannon said yesterday at the World Community Day Service at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

"That struggle within our own country should help us in understanding what it is that the masses are seeking all over the world," she said.

Dr. Shannon has personally talked with women all over the world in her capacity as Associate General Secretary for Relations on Ecumenical Missions cooperating with interdenominational agencies.

Her talk yesterday before representatives of the 23 Monroe County Churches which compose the United Council of Churchwomen highlighted these experiences in a series of vignettes from the first conference in Hong Kong to a church in Harlem where a speaker from Brazil explained the revolution going on there.

"Nation building is not a one-time thing," she said. "It must start over with each generation. It is occurring in this country as it is in Kenya and in other new African nations where turmoil represents the attempt to span 300 years of self-government in ten. It is happening in Latin America."

New Voter Service Set Up In Barrett Over Election

Canadensis — An innovation in Barrett Township politics was announced by Roger Lindsey, candidate for supervisor, at a meeting of the Barrett Council of Republican Women, held at the Barrett Elementary Center Monday night.

Lindsey said, "Any Barrett voter, needing assistance, whether it be transportation, baby sitters or information, is asked to call 595-7281." The telephone will be in service, Monday, Nov. 4 from noon until the polls close on election day. He continued, "I feel that it is most important that all voters are given every opportunity to reach the polls."

Other townships candidates introduced were, Mrs. Marie Albert, for township auditor; Gerald Case, constable; Warren Miller, school director; William Helbig, candidate for school director, was not present.

The entire slate of Republican candidates for county office addressed the meeting. These included, Mrs. Jeanette Batory, register and recorder; Edward Metzgar, sheriff; Mary Emma Garcia, Auditor; R. V. Fritzgerald, auditor; Ruth Sluter, prothonotary; John Price, commissioner and Stanley Ra-revolutions we are forced into cohesion as one great human family.

The second great world-wide fact she cited was that "The masses are beginning to see what they have been missing and they all look with great expectations to us, confident that we will share what we have learned, our know-how, with them."

"History is not only moving rapidly, it is also turning many sharp corners. The old ways of life are being uprooted in ways that fit neither into the old pattern nor in our Christian way."

"We can be sure of only one thing that God is in this revolution and on the way we answer the worlds common need depends on how we will be judged," she said.

Dr. Shannon also called for a better relationship with the thousands of foreign students in this country who go home without ever having met with Americans who have any intelligent understanding of the problems they are trying to solve in their homeland.

She was introduced by Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff. The program itself was under the direction of Mrs. George L. Bush, county chairman of the commission on world relations.

Mrs. John McConnell was soloist and Mrs. Lucy Quig organist. Women from various churches participated in a review of the 20 years of World Community Day building for world peace.

Climax of the program came with the presentation of friendship packets and layettes prepared by the 23 member churches for areas of acute human need, and the collection of more than $80 in money. Mrs. Thomas Knepp was in charge of the dedication of gifts.

The platform was flanked by an array of national flags, loaned by the Tobyhanna Army Depot. Rev. Roger Stimson gave the benediction.

Tea was served afterward by the women of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church with Mrs. T. I. Metzgar and Mrs. Elwood Hintze presiding at the tea table.

State Grange Explains Stand On Amendments

Brodheadville — Richard G. Seidof, master of Mineola Grange, has detailed the position of the Pennsylvania State Grange in regard to the questions to be voted upon at the election next Tuesday.

In a letter to all its subordinate masters, the state grange has urged a Vote No on the Constitutional Convention Referendum, a Vote No on Project 70 amendment, but supported the constitutional amendment authorizing the establishment of a state scholarship loan fund.

They oppose the wholesale rewriting of the constitution in favor of amendments, fearing to sacrifice constitutional guarantees afforded individuals and local branches of government in favor of metropolitan, centralized government.

The amendment authorizing Project 70 is opposed calling for the legislature to provide a plan to make present state parks self-sustaining, granting allowances to landowners for moving, loss of business and relocation, and state funds to replace local tax money lost by removal of land from the tax rolls.

Here's a little guessing game about some of the people at Wyckoff's. I wonder if you can identify:

1—the Wyckoff department head who is a regular Little Miss Fixit? It's gotten to the point where everyone with a hinge that won't work or a lock that doesn't catch calls upon her for advice.

2—the Wyckoff department head who is so interested in politics it wouldn't surprise any one of us to see him run for an office some day. (No—not Harold Albert, who has been supervisor of his township for years and is running again. Take another guess.)

3—the Credit Office employee who can't bring herself to eat anything artificially colored green. She likes green vegetables and green folding money, but, aside from that, huh uh.

4—the Wyckoff employee who recently invested in an organ and now divides her spare time between painting and music, for both of which she has real talent.

Okay... ready to check? Here are the answers: Miss Fixit is Laura Fabel of our Wyckoff hosiery department; our Candidate-of-the-Future is John Grogan, Shoes; the gal who turns up her nose at lime salad is Doris Otto, and the one who paints and plays the organ is May Adam, of Toys. Since her retirement from the Salvation Army, Brigadier Adam is having a wonderful time exploring new fields—which is the very thing one should do when one's retirement rolls around.

Which reminds me... did you read the resume of the very excellent talk given by Bernard Baruch to a group of elderly citizens? No one, he said, should retire FROM anything; he should retire TO something... to new endeavors, interests and hobbies, and to a new awareness of his importance as a citizen with time to actually throw his weight against inflation and those other threats to our national security.

Beginning Monday, Wyckoff's inaugurates the new policy of having TWO weekly shopping nights: Monday and Friday. This will undoubtedly be welcomed by countless men as well as women who work all day and find it difficult to visit the stores. It will also simplify the business of Christmas shopping, which many persons have already begun.

Why are we staying open two nights a week? For one reason—WYCKOFF'S loves you, and just can't have you around often enough. Make us happy! Come often.

Women Add To Income By Doing Typing At Home

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

A favorite subject in this column, according to readers' letters, is how to make money typing at home. And most of the letters that come to this desk are divided into three groups.

First, there's the third that writes to tell us how they get typing at home.

Second, there's the third that writes to ask for more ideas on how to go about getting it.

Can't Get It
Third, there's the group who write to say that they've tried and can't get typing work. To them, we're directing this column — and the story of Edith Grace.

Like a lot of women, Edith gave up her office job when she started a family. But by the time her three girls were in school Edith grew more and more anxious to do some kind of work.

"All three girls were on different schedules, however," Edith told us, "so going out to work wasn't the answer for me. Besides, I was rusty on shorthand and didn't want to do it. Consequently I decided to set up a typing shop at home."

Calls And Letters

For her start, Edith decided that the way to get home typing was to call all the large business firms in her area (the phone books yellow pages yielded the list) indicate her experience, ask about work that might be farmed out and then follow up these calls with letters of application that the firm could keep on file.

For a year, however, Edith found no opportunity.

Almost Gave Up

Then, one day, when she had stopped thinking about doing typing at home, she got a phone call from a woman who had worked where Edith was once employed.

"I was unaware that she was working for one of the firms to which I applied," explained Edith. "But while she was going through the files one morning she saw my application."

By the long arm of coincidence, she saw Edith's offer to do any typing that could be farmed out just at the very moment that the company had overflowed work. Consequently, since the woman was familiar with Edith's experience and dependability, she suggested her for the work.

"And only a short time after that," Edith went on, "the woman began her own business and needed someone to help her out by doing the work at home.

Now Very Busy

"As a result, as her business grew my home typing grew," Edith finished happily. "And, also, since her work involved addressing thousands of envelopes by hand I got a chance to do that work, too."

"Now I'm so busy with work at home I often have to get other help to take work home from me."

Family Habits May Help To Make Youngsters Fat

Are parents to blame for overweight children?

A study by Dr. S. L. Hammar of the University of Washington School of Medicine indicates that overweight parents and family eating habits contribute heavily to obesity in youngsters.

In an article in GP, magazine of the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Hammar reports on his study of 50 children, ranging in age from 10 to 17. Two-thirds of them, he found, were from families in which both parents were decidedly overweight, especially the mothers.

None of the parents was making any effort to control his weight. Dr. Hammar wasn't able to determine how influential was the parental example, but none of the children was successful in losing weight.

Efforts Undermined
Family eating patterns were deeply ingrained, Dr. Hammar found, and could not be changed. Mothers were invariably excellent cooks and overly concerned about the adequacy of their offspring's diet.

"They undermined the adolescents' efforts to lose weight by excessive baking or by forcing them to help with the food preparation," says Dr. Hammar.

He found that the adolescents studied fell into three personality patterns: (1) the dependent type, with strong mother attachment; (2) the aggressive type, who express anger and hostility mostly toward their parents; and (3) the emotionally disturbed type, with intense feelings of loneliness and distrust, and weak ties with reality.

One of the most striking aspects, points out Dr. Hammar, was the amount of sexual anxiety they exhibited. He says:

"The boys tended to be moralistic, were careful to protect themselves against opportunities to date and had few masculine interests or contacts. They had a poor relationship with their fathers and a strong attachment to their mothers. . . ."

"The girls generally had few dates and they used their obesity and their parents' restrictions as their excuses. Most of them did not have any desire to get married or to have families. . . . They used their obesity as a way of protecting themselves against masculine attention."

Don't Nag

The group had little interest in games and recreational sports, and family patterns appeared to reinforce the adolescents' physical inactivity, the pediatrician reports.

"The best treatment for obesity ultimately involves prevention," says Dr. Hammar, who suggests that therapy should not only help the adolescent lose weight but help him with problems of adjustment.

He gives this advice to parents:

"The obesity problem is the adolescent's responsibility. Constant nagging and reminders about the diet only make the adolescent angrier. . . . The parents should give silent support and they should have only a minimum amount of food and a wellstocked pantry may encourage the adolescent to break his diet."

American Women Lucky In Temperament, Temperature

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

New York (AP) — For nearly 20 years paintings signed Theobald have created a stir in Europe. Theobald's awards include the top prizes in the art world.

Not long ago one of the top English language newspapers in Paris printed a glowing account of Theobald's most recent showing and called the painter: "An artist at the forefront of his contemporaries. . . ."

Heartwarming praise indeed. Especially since Theobald is a woman — a pretty, brown-eyed blonde named Mrs. Du Bois de Montreynaud, wife of a distinguished mathematician and mother of five daughters.

The other day in New York, on her way home to Paris from her first U.S. exhibition — in San Francisco — Mrs. Montreynaud explained how a woman copes with the great French prejudice against women artists.

"I've painted since I was 18," she said. "At 20 I was already a permanent member of a famous old French society."

"Using my name as it was, Theobald — Renee Theobald was my maiden name — they didn't know I was a woman."

She added charitably: "It's true maybe that many ladies just paint for pleasure. . . ."

But anyway, she said, Europe is becoming so quickly Americanized "it's going to be better for women one of these days."

"Life is much easier for women here in America," she said. "It's a small thing, but you are living in a temperature 5 degrees Centigrade (9 degrees Fahrenheit) higher than we are living. Women can dress in sleeveless dresses and let the men boil. In Europe men are nice in our temperature and the women have to dress entirely covered up or freeze."

"When I went back last time from here, about a year and a half ago, it was freezing in my home and I wanted to turn the heat up. 'No,' said my husband, 'it will be too hot.' I discovered we in Europe are living as men like to live; here it's lived for the women."

Her daughters' ages range 5 to 15. Mrs. Montreynaud said she's called an experimenter "and I

THEOBALD — With painting from her first U. S. exhibition.

Nonetheless, her husband approves of her painting.

"I'm happy he respects my work and that he thinks it important for me to keep on painting. I try to help him in his field too. The fulfillment of one person in a family can be fulfillment for the whole family if we share. . . ."

"He brings home often scientific people and I like to hear what they say and discuss."

She uses one room of their large Paris apartment as a studio. "That way I'm home with the children and can help them with homework when varnish is drying or I'm doing lots of secondary things."

Her daughters' ages range 5 to 15. Mrs. Montreynaud said she's called an experimenter "and I

Now In November, Remember Pumpkins And Mincemeat

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

Stroudsburg — November comes as quite a shock this year, for with the July weather in October, severe drought, closing of the woods, and banning of the hunting season, it seems as if the wrong month is turning up on the calendar. And to think the holidays are just around the corner!

Don't wait until the end of the month to use pumpkin and mincemeat, or at least try out some recipes now that you can make later on. I made a pumpkin pie last week that I especially recommend because I think it would be perfect after the huge Thanksgiving feast. It's much lighter than the usual custard pie and I'm offering the recipe early so that you can test it.

abstract art, the prospect of homogenized civilization brings out her strongest feelings. She said:

"America is interesting to watch because, whether you believe it or not, that's the way we French will be in four or eight years. The differences are getting smaller and smaller."

"We're losing the greatest riches of the world, which lies in our differences. Remaining individual is a joy of life, the reason for living."

But she loves America, she protested.

"I have never completely recovered from a feeling I had at 18 when the American Army came to Paris."

"After four dark years, they came so gay and powerful and happy, and the whole town fell in love with them. For the rest of my life I will have a special feeling for America."

The last time I made a pumpkin chiffon pie it involved so many pots and pans that I haven't made it since, and it also was too rich as it had whipping cream as one of the ingredients. This recipe is easy to prepare, not as many calories, and can be made a day ahead. It is not highly seasoned; if you like a spicy pie you could add 1/2 teaspoon ginger.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

Mix together in top of double boiler:
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Stir in:
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup water
3 egg yolks
1 1/2 cans canned pumpkin
Mix well. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring occasionally, until gelatin dissolves and mixture is heated through, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; chill until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon.

Beat egg whites until stiff; beat in 1 cup sugar until stiff. Fold in gelatin mixture. Turn filling into baked pie shell. Chill at least two hours or overnight. Serves 8. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

Mincemeat combines with apples to make this good dessert; a true November recipe!

Mincemeat Apple Betty

1 1/2 cups prepared mincemeat

1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
4 cups pared sliced apples
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup butter

Combine mincemeat and lemon peel; place half the apples in bottom of greased 10x6x2 inch pan. Cover with half the mincemeat. Repeat layers. Combine remaining ingredients and sprinkle over top. Bake in moderate oven (350) till apples are tender, about 45 minutes. Serve warm with cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Did you ever make a pumpkin cake? I'll bet you'll like it. It can be made with either white or brown sugar, though I prefer the brown.

Pumpkin Cake

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar or 1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup cooked, mashed pumpkin
2 eggs
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup milk

Cream shortening with sugar. Add pumpkin and eggs and beat. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Bake in two 8 inch layer pans, greased and floured, or a loaf pan at 375 for 40 minutes.

Mincemeat cookies have always been one of my favorites; they're a soft cookie with lots of flavor. Here's a new recipe using a flavoring of instant coffee.

Mincemeat-Oatmeal Cookies
1 and one-third cups mincemeat
1 1/4 cups sifted all purpose flour
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups rolled oats

Sift together flour, instant coffee, baking soda and salt. Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar, beating until fluffy. Beat in egg. Stir in mincemeat. Add flour mixture in 3 parts, blending well after each addition. Mix in rolled oats. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet, about 2 inches apart. Flatten cookies slightly. Bake in 350 oven until lightly browned, about 15 minutes.

Anna Russopolus called me to tell me she was making the Cider cake I had in the paper a couple of weeks ago and the eggs were omitted in the recipe. Hope you didn't make it without the eggs, and if you still have the recipe, add 3 eggs to list of ingredients!

WHEN you are putting leftover roast turkey in the freezer, leave the meat in large pieces if it is to be stored for any length of time.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. Education On A Loan And A Prayer

(Editor's Note: The following article is reprinted with the permission of the Harrisburg Patriot-News).

By JAMES WELSH
Of The Sunday Patriot-News

Ten years ago borrowing money to go to college just wasn't done.

Today it's not only done, the practice has mushroomed to a point where the search for loan funds has turned into a real scramble.

Everybody's in the act. On the one end of the loan dollar are an increasing number of students and families. On the other end are colleges, banks, loan companies and, especially, government — both federal and state.

Now the Pennsylvania State Government is ready to play a role. This year the Legislature authorized the Higher Education Assistance Agency to insure student loans. The law carries an appropriation of $425,000, enough to guarantee from $4 million to $5 million in loans.

But before the Agency can go to work, Pennsylvania voters must give their approval at the Nov. 5 election. That's because the Pennsylvania constitution forbids the granting of state funds for charitable, educational or benevolent purposes to any person. . . . The proposed amendment, one of four referenda on the ballot, would make an exception for all students but those in theological schools.

Would the exception apply only to loan funds, or would it permit state-financed scholarships?

Here's the tricky part of the whole issue. A good many voters might feel they've been thrown a real curve ball in the wording of the constitutional referendum. Here's how it reads:

"Shall Pennsylvania begin a program of loans to deserving college students by amending Section eighteen of Article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania to permit appropriations for scholarship grants or loans for higher educational purposes to residents of the Commonwealth. . . ."

Said George Mohlenhoff, deputy superintendent for higher education in the Department of Public Instruction: "There is no question but that passage of this amendment would make possible the creation of a scholarship program."

Constitutional amendments must get approval of two separate Legislatures before going on the ballot. This amendment first was placed before the Legislature in 1961 shortly after Governor Lawrence's Committee on Education recommended starting a multi-million-dollar scholarship program. This year, with a new noticeable swing away from the idea of scholarships. Yet the amendment was retained and passed intact so that it could go on the ballot this November. "For scholarships to be granted, the Legislature would have to establish a program," said Mohlenhoff, "and that isn't in sight now. The loan program is what we're thinking about."

The higher education chief believes this kind of governmental commitment to student aid is important, and that the need for it will grow in the years ahead. "This loan program," he said, "will help give equal opportunity to every qualified student who wants to go to college. It will not exempt him from the responsibility of paying for his education. But it will put that education closer to his reach."

Supporters of the loan plan, and of the amendment that will give it a green light, point to a number of developments in higher education:

In the last ten years the cost of going to college has increased at a steeper rate than average family incomes. A survey of 15 Pennsylvania colleges earlier this year by The Patriot-News showed a 10-year cost rise of 71 per cent. Census figures show Pennsylvania incomes went up 47 per cent in that period.

A student finds it more difficult to work his way intirely. College costs have risen faster than student earning capacity, and heavier academic pressures have reduced the amount of time available for working. There is a squeeze on scholarship with the increase in funds tending to be soaked up by tuition increases.

A similar squeeze has developed in the field of loans. Federal loan money, channeled to colleges through the National Defense Education Act, are oversubscribed to the point where it could use twice what it has available. The Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities said a recent survey in this state showed the need for at least $8 million in additional loan funds.

Said Mohlenhoff: "We have records indicating that 16 out of every 100 well-qualified students don't go to college because of financial difficulties."

"The amount of money that makes the difference between what a typically needy student must have and what he actually does have is not $1,000 a year, which is the maximum a student could borrow under the Pennsylvania plan, but more like $300. This gap is not terribly large, but it is difficult to overcome."

Why not let banks and other private lending agencies do the job?

The big reason for the state's role is to give all students an equal chance to get a loan," Mohlenhoff said. "The young person who does not have collateral of his own or whose family has a bad credit rating is the young person who frequently loses out."

There is also the probability insured loans would be lower than students could get on their own. Exactly what the interest rates would be remains for the Higher Education Assistance Agency to decide.

Experience in other states points to a very low default rate. In no state has it been as high as 1 per cent.

If the voters say "yes", Pennsylvania would be the eighth state to establish this kind of loan-guarantee agency. The seven with programs now in effect are New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Virginia and Ohio.

New York, which also runs a substantial scholarship program, currently is helping more students through loans than any other state. Last year it guaranteed 66,689 loans, with the average amount $701. Massachusetts was next with 16,192 loans averaging $463. Ohio, just getting started, guaranteed 1,885 loans averaging $696.

According to Mohlenhoff, the money available to an assistance agency will guarantee 8 to 12 times as much as that in actual loans. Figuring the ratio at 10, Pennsylvania's agency would be able to handle $4.25 million in loans. If the loans averaged out to $500, that would mean 8,500 students could be assisted.

"I've been impressed by the understanding and concern expressed by the groups to which I've spoken. People with children in school are worried about financing their educations. A man making, say, $7,800 a year, wonders about educating his teen-age child and still helping his other children. The people I talk to are not looking for a free ride. They're looking for a practical way to solve a very difficult problem."

How will Pennsylvania's loan-insurance agency work? Under the law, the agency would be governed by a board of 10 members, three appointed by the Governor, three by the Senate President Pro Tempore, three by the Speaker of the House and the Superintendent of Public Instruction. It would be staffed by the DPI. A separate appropriation of $75,000 would be for administering the program.

To qualify for a loan, a student must have completed his freshman year in college, be a resident of the state, have good grades and demonstrate financial need. He could borrow up to $1,000 a year and a total of $5,000. Repayment must begin six months after a student graduates and be completed within five years. The loans could be used at colleges both in and out of Pennsylvania. To promote a "Yes" vote on the student-loan amendment, the Pennsylvania Committee for Higher Education Loan Plan has been created. Funds have come from private colleges, which traditionally have advocated state scholarship and loan programs.

D. W. McCormick is executive director of the Committee, which operates in Harrisburg from the offices of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities.

Three and a half years ago, the incumbent Commissioners, Lesoine and Rader, without any previous warning, sent word to the Children's Aid Society that they would withdraw 45 children from the care of CAS shortly.

By doing this, the Commissioners would have caused CAS to discontinue ALL services to Monroe County due to lack of sufficient funds.

Next, the Commissioners announced that they would reconsider if CAS would fire its executive secretary—a fully qualified professional man. They, (the commissioners) "just didn't like him." (Daily Record Feb. 2, 1960, page one) and disregarded 15 children whose welfare hung in the balance.

Many tense and anxious months followed due to the unwarranted action of the incumbent commissioners.

I have not forgotten—have you? Let's vote out Rader and Lesoine and vote for PRICE AND PIPHER.

"I Don't Believe in Empty Promises!"

Here are my PLANS on Key Issues — Not Promises —

TAXES Assessments must be fair and uniform without bias. Full-time, efficient county government will lower the tax load. Taxes must be adjusted to the changes in the county.

EXPERIENCE A man cannot serve as a Commissioner fairly if he isn't a property owner and experienced businessman and interested in improving the economic situation for ALL residents. The future of this county is tremendous. The County Commissioners must work full time to prepare for the future.

SERVICE County Commissioners are paid $4,200 per year. At this salary, a man owes the county his full time. The voice of the voter must be heard. The Commissioners must listen to "the man on the street."

LOCAL RULES Fewer and fewer decisions are being made by our county officials. State and National "matching funds" are taking local control out of the picture. We in Monroe County are capable of deciding and moving ahead on the basis of what's best for us.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE The prevailing voice in county decisions must be that of "the man on the street." The Commissioners' Office must reflect THAT voice and not the voice of political "hacks" and out of county interests. A Commissioner must "ask the people."

ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS . . . THEY ARE SURE TO AGREE!

Shall I force my child to go to Sunday School and Church?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yes, definitely! Startled? Why? How do you answer Lucy when she comes to the breakfast table and announces, "I'm not going to school today!" You know, Lucy goes.

How do you answer when Lucy comes in besmudged with dirt and says, "I'm not going to take a bath!" You know, Lucy bathes.

How do you answer when Lucy, threatened with illness, says, "I'm not going to take that medicine!" You know, she takes it.

Why all this timidity, then, in the realm of spiritual guidance and moral training? Going to wait and let her decide what Church she'll go to when she's old enough? Don't fool yourself. By that time she'll probably believe that a decision neglected by her parents during her first twenty years might not be necessary at all. You didn't wait until she was "old enough" to decide she should go to school.

Afraid she'll later succumb to the old story about "... too much religion when I was young ... parents made me go?" This tale is obviously false. Just because she takes a bath tonight doesn't mean she'll discontinue them at the age of twenty-one.

What shall I say to Lucy when she announces she doesn't like Sunday School and Church? That's easy. Be consistent. By firmness and example you can show her that church-going is a necessity. And in later years, she will thank you for bringing into her life the greatest values a mature person can possess — Christian habits and ideals.

Cards For Real?

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the St. Louis Cardinals for real? Now comes the real test—two games with the New York Giants and two with Cleveland among the seven remaining for the Cards.

The first big one is Sunday at St. Louis with the Giants. The two teams are tied for second in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League, one game behind Cleveland. If the Browns should falter at Philadelphia Sunday, the winner of the Card-Giant game would go into a first-place tie.

Pennant Hopes
Pittsburgh, still nursing pennant hopes in the East, 1½ games behind the Browns, enters a make-or-break period Sunday against Green Bay at Milwaukee. The following week Buddy Parker's Steelers play Cleveland.

In contrast to the wide open Eastern race, the Western Conference has narrowed down to a two-team scrap between the Packers and the Chicago Bears. They don't meet again until Nov. 17. However, the Packers may have their hands full with the Steelers and the Bears may run into a buzzsaw in Baltimore in two vital Sunday games.

Other Action
Detroit NFL action Sunday finds Detroit at San Francisco, Washington at Dallas and Los Angeles at Minnesota. The favorites are New York, Cleveland, Green Bay, Chicago, Detroit, Dallas and Minnesota.

The American Football League action opened with the Friday night game at Boston between the Patriots and Houston. San Diego's powerful Western Division leaders play the New York Jets Saturday night at the Polo Grounds. The Sunday AFL schedule has Kansas City at Oakland and Buffalo at Denver.

S-burg Travels To Catasauqua

STROUDSBURG — The Mountaineers of Stroud Union take a dismal 1-6 record to Catasauqua with them for today's game with the Rough Riders.

The Mountaineer record is not as bad as it appears at first glance. First of all, while scoring but 65 points on offense, the only Mountaineers shutout was their opening 13-0 loss to Lehigh.

This shows that the SU gladiators can move the ball when the spirit strikes them.

Sports Group Meets Monday

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen Clubs will meet Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at McMichael's Rod and Gun Club.

James Price, president, has urged representatives of all clubs in the federation to attend. He also issued an invitation to any sportsmen clubs which are not affiliated with the federation to be present.

Is This Week Of Upsets In Pro Football Ranks?

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If it's balance the professional football leagues are looking for, this is the week. Without stretching the imagination too far, it could be a week when all 10 underdogs win.

The only break a somewhat blue-eyed fortune teller gets is that the 11th game on the schedule was a Friday night affair and didn't have to be reckoned with.

Heading into the second half of the professional schedule, the record is 48-22-2 fortified a bit by last week's 8-2-1 performance that included the New York Giants' beauty over Cleveland. Once more.

NFL
Green Bay 31, Pittsburgh 20—Ed Brown rescued the Steelers against Dallas last Sunday but the Packers' defense is something else again. John Roach isn't Bart Starr but he doesn't need to be as long as Green Bay has that great running game. With Tom Moore back in shape, chances for a Steeler upset are reduced.

New York 28, St. Louis 24—Charlie Johnson and Sonny Randle gave the Giants' defense fits last Sunday and still the Cards lost. St. Louis still hasn't played a good one at home. The Cards are overdue but New York has momentum, and next to Tittle, that's Coach Allie Sherman's favorite word.

Cleveland 31, Philadelphia 17—The best way to stop Jimmy Brown is to keep the ball away from him and the Giants' ball control and the play-calling of Browns' Frank Ryan, did it last Sunday. Browns can react two ways to the Giant debacle. It says here they'll bounce back, particularly with all those Eagle injuries.

Baltimore 17, Chicago 13 — Best chance for an upset in the important NFL games Sunday. Colts have been so close to winning a big game this year. With

Close Games
The last four Stroud Union games have been decided by a touchdown or less. This includes its only win of the season over Palmerton 19-13.

These figures point to the fact that, except for the 33-13 Emmaus debacle, the Mountaineers have been in some pretty close games.

The thing they have to defend against is getting used to losing. (The players that is). Coach Jerry Stulgaitis has already been bitten by the losing bug, apparently.

In an interview earlier this week, Stulgaitis was quoted as saying, "I get so tired of losing the close ones it doesn't bother me any more."

But what has bothered the Mountaineer mentor has been the growing list of injuries. Stulgaitis says it seems to him every time the club goes on the field it's never quite the same team.

The injuries have weakened not only the offensive machinery of the Maroon, but it has taken its toll on the defensive alignment as well.

TITTLE WARMS UP — Giants quarterback Y. A. Tittle, leading passer in the NFL, prepares to toss his specialty during workout in Yankee Stadium. The Giants take on the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday as they battle to stay in the thick of their conference fight. (AP Wirephoto)

A Landslide For Blue Eagles

Nazareth Blitzes Bangor, 27-0

By ARMON WILLIAMS
Daily Record Correspondent

BANGOR — Nazareth Area High lowered the boom on Bangor Area High last night, fashioning a 27-0 victory that had the stunned Slaters totally stymied for the first time this season.

From the moment Al McNear escaped on a 71-yard touchdown run midway in the first until the closing score with only two minutes remaining, it was a landslide for the Blue Eagles, who had a 20-0 stranglehold on the proceedings by halftime.

The vanquished Maroon flashed its old magic only at the start, moving from its own 44 to Nazareth's 23 in two first downs soon after the kickoff. Then a 15-yard penalty upset Nazareth's on the exchange of punts and it led to the game's second tally.

Big Gallop
McNear's big gallop, on second and five, followed Jim Dietz's punt out of the situation precipitated by the fine and aggravated by a 13-yard loss of a forward that had the Slaters retreating to the other side of the 50. Breaking off left tackle, he easily out-raced the field. Jim Herceg, booted the point.

Although Jim Soffera immediately regained the offensive for Nazareth by recovering Jim Hinkel's kickoff on Bangor's 47, Bangor managed to hold but the advantage continued to be Nazareth's on the exchange of punts and it led to the game's second tally.

Nazareth rolled 55 paces in less than a dozen plays for this one. Nick Drosnock's pass to Bill Granda alone was good for 21 yards and the legging of McNear, Drosnock, Dick Douglas and Granda consumed the balance of the distance, with Drosnock, on a roll-out, counting from the 7. Herceg's placement missed.

It was the same story when the Blue Eagles again got their hands on the pigskin via Dietz's punt to the 22. McNear, Douglas, Drosnock and Lou Werner consistently sliced the Bangor line with gains ranging up to 12 yards. The march, traversed in five first downs, terminated with an 8-yard toss from Drosnock to McNear for the touchdown. Herceg again converted.

Drosnock's interception shut off Bangor's bid to recoup in the little time remaining in the half, and the third period got under way with Nazareth again in control although the Slaters were able to flag down a 62-yard drive on the 12-yard line.

Applies Brakes
When the Maroon showed signs of gaining momentum, a fumble by Jimmy Parsons, recovered by Drosnock on Nazareth's 42, applied the brakes, and a subsequent move early in the fourth was turned back by McNear's interception on the 15 after reaching the 38.

After Granda's kick out, Bangor surrendered possession on the 46 in failing to make the yardage on a fourth and two setup. Sparked by McNear's 26-yard jaunt off tackle, Nazareth turned this fiasco into a scoring march. Jim Deichman also contributed a 14-yard advance enroute and in just a half-dozen plays the Blue Eagles were across, with Deichman sneaking from the 1. Herceg continued on target with his place-kicking.

Another interception quickly throttled the Maroon's effort after the kickoff and when Bangor again assumed the offensive there was time only for two plays, neither effective.

Texas, after close calls in the last two of its six straight victories, isn't overconfident as it goes against Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, SMU has lost two Southwest Conference games but has beaten such strong teams as Navy, ranked fourth nationally, and Air Force. If the Longhorns falter, there's Baylor, tied for the lead and favored to beat Texas Christian Saturday.

In the Big Ten, which provides the other Rose Bowl team, Illinois, Ohio State and Michigan State are tied with 2-0 conference records. Michigan State appears to have Saturday's toughest assignment against defending champion Wisconsin. Illinois plays Purdue and Ohio State meets Iowa.

Missouri and Nebraska try to knock one another out of the Big Eight race and the Orange Bowl picture when they meet at Columbia, Mo. They're both 3-0 in the conference standings. Oklahoma, 2-0, should have no trouble against Colorado.

In the Southeastern Conference, which traditionally supplies a team for the Sugar Bowl and usually a few other post-season attractions, Louisiana State and Mississippi meet at Baton Rouge, La., in a head on clash between two of the leaders. A third, Auburn, tackles a fairly strong Florida team.

The Mississippi-LSU and USC-Washington games will be televised regionally, along with the big service clash at Chicago between Army and Air Force.

Texas, Illinois, Mississippi, Navy and Auburn are ranked in that order in the AP poll, followed by Oklahoma, Alabama, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Pittsburgh.

Alabama, 4-1 in the SEC, takes on Mississippi State, 2-0-1. Pitt, trounced by Navy last week, tries a comeback against rugged Syracuse in the East's big game.

Princeton and Bowling Green, the only major teams besides Texas and Auburn still unbeaten and untied, defend first place in their respective leagues. Princeton's Tigers, 3-0 in the Ivy League and 5-0 over-all, go against Brown. Bowling Green risks its Mid-American Conference lead against second-place Miami of Ohio.

Geiberger Takes Lead By 1 Stroke

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Al Geiberger, red hot the past three weeks, forged into a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $25,000 Almaden Open golf tournament Friday with a 67 and a two-day total of 136.

Not all the action was among the leaders, however, as Charlie Sifford tied Geiberger's Almaden Golf and Country Club course record with a 65 and Bob McCallister knocked off six consecutive birdies.

Defending champion Geiberger, who had a first day 69, came back with a 33-34 round over the 7,045-yard par 36-36 — 72 gently rolling sand drenched layout. He took only 26 putts although he didn't drop any longer than 10 feet.

Second Place
Jim Ferree and Bob Rosburg pulled into a second place tie at 137, shooting 69 and 68 respectively. First day co-leaders Babe Hickey and Dutch Harrison each jumped from 66 to 73 and into a tie for fifth at 139 with Don Whit, Alex Sutton and Bob Goetz.

Richard McLain, veteran scoutleader who has given more than 30 years to furthering the scouting movement in the Newfound area, also spoke to the parents and the boys who attended the meeting.

The November 6 meeting will be for interested parents. Mr. Croft will again be on hand to take charge.

Some 40 boys have indicated interest in the formation of the cub pack. Cub scouting was discontinued several years ago in the area, although the scout troop and explorer post have remained active.

Births In Monroe County On Upswing 1st 6 Months

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County births in the first half of the year were on the upswing as compared with the same period last year.

A report by the State Department of Health yesterday shows the number of births in Monroe County during the six-month period totaled 386 as compared with 376 births in the county last year at the same time.

The current birth rate for the county stands at 19.2 per 1000 population — up from a rate of 18.2 a year earlier.

Deaths climbed from 235 during the half in 1962 to 245 for the current year bringing the present death rate for the county up to 12.2 per 1000 population.

Leading Cause Heart Disease
Leading cause of death in the county continues to be heart disease which during the January-June period took the lives of 97 county residents, (80 during the 1962 comparable period). Other causes of death in the county were:

Tuberculosis, one death (one in 1962); malignant neoplasms,

Bids For ESSC Dorm Nov. 27

HARRISBURG — Bids will be received Nov. 27 on construction of a dormitory building for men at East Stroudsburg State College, the General State Authority said yesterday.

The building will house 200 men. It will consist of two units. The larger unit will be four stories high with a full basement. It will contain 50 student rooms, a counselor's room, study, unit lounge and two washrooms on each floor. The basement will house recreation rooms, a laundry, fallout shelter and mechanical rooms.

The smaller unit, one story, will house the public lounge, office, public washrooms, laundry pickup and the manager's two bedroom apartment.

Both units will be faced with brick. The dormitory will complete a dormitory quadrangle at the college.

The General State Authority, in announcing the bid date, said it has allocated $800,000 for the project.

Let's Make It A Safe and Sane "Fifth"

The "FIFTH" is not the Fourth of July, but we have an obligation to make the 5th of November as safe and sane as the 4th of July.

SAFETY, in electing Officials in our County who will work toward more efficient business administration in their Offices. Toward more modern record keeping, recording equipment and other new equipment that will vastly reduce the cost of their Offices.

SANITY, in resisting the will of any small group that comes along with the will to saddle the County with more expenses to settle the selfish desire of a few. Sanity, in resisting the uncontrollable urge of the politicians to vote for any scheme that they think will provide a few more votes in the next election, regardless of the cost to the taxpayers.

SANITY, to resist the enticing embellishments of the Federal Government, the State Government and Charitable Organizations to take more and more of the property of the County . . . and pay less and or no taxes at all while the citizens of Monroe County pay more and more while these people enjoy TAX-FREE SERVICES. True our present Commissioners are awakening from their long sleep on this subject, but we must face the fact . . . with our Govt' owned land, our State owned land and our Charitable instituted land, HAVE SO FEW IN MONROE COUNTY HISTORY BEEN PAYING TAXES FOR SO MANY.

Let's Stop It!

Let's Have A "Safe and Sane Fifth Of November"

By Voting STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN

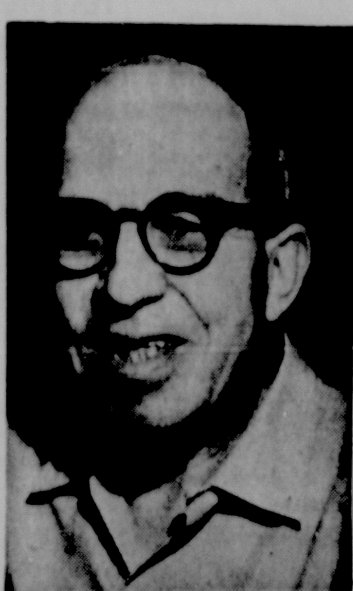

And Voting Monroe County Back To Normalcy
